ERRG was awarded a task order under the United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA) Superfund Technical Assessment and Emergency Response Team (START) contract to provide prevention and preparedness support for various quarterly tasks in Hawaii including:

- Coordinating Local Emergency Planning Committee (LEPC) meetings throughout the different Islands.
- Assisting in coordinating and directing objective based drills and exercises that include key emergency response stakeholders throughout the community.
- Coordinating and facilitating meetings with county and state agencies to enhance cooperation and better coordinate efforts during emergencies.
- Assisting with pre-exercise preparations by identifying advanced training (e.g., NIMS ICS training, public affairs training, equipment deployment, etc.) requirements for players and participants.
- Other specific assignments, as directed.

Specifically, ERRG is responsible for providing support for planning and preparedness efforts in Hawaii while primarily working with the Local Emergency Planning Committees (LEPC's) on each island. ERRG developed a working relationship with each LEPC by attending meetings and encouraging information exchange to promote a positive working relationship with EPA Oceania Region IX. ERRG has also been working with the local Coast Guard Sector in discussing the lines of demarcation between EPA and Coast Guard jurisdictions for the Hawaiian Islands. In support of the EPA, and the Hawaii State Department of Health, ERRG provided expert assistance during the execution of a three day Table Top Exercise which included pre-exercise ICS training to all the participants.

ERRG continues to work closely with the EPA, all LEPC members, and the Coast Guard by providing specialized training, coordination support, and exercises.
